BAPTISTS CLOSE CONVENTION TODAY

WILL HOLD NEXT ANNUAL MEET OF ASSOCIATION AT TARKIO.

KANSAS CITY PASTOR SPOKE LAST NIGHT

Gives Address on Laymen's Movement. Thirty-five Churches Rrepresented at Maryville Gathering.

The closing session of the Northwest Missouri Baptist association which has been in convention at the First Baptist church since Tuesday morning, was held this afternoon, Dr. C. B. Miller pastor of the Central Baptist church of Kansas City, giving the closing address.

The 1916 meeting of the association will be held at Tarkio during the first part of September.

The morning session today was devoted to William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., and its part in the denominational work of the church. Dr. E. C. Griffith of the faculty of William Jewell was in charge of this hour and gave a splendid address upon the value of Christian education.

Dr. Miller gave one of the finest addresses of the convention last night, taking for his subject, "The Layman, His Place in the Kingdom of God."

Dr. Miller said in part:

Church Needs Real Men.

"The church now faces such an issue as it has never faced before. The task is stupendous. Whether ignorant or learned, rich or poor, God finds a place for every man and every man ought to find himself in his place. Let us think of the magnificent industries we are so familiar with today.

"Back of all these splendid commercial organizations is the genius of a clear brained man. We can't get along without it. We need it. How in these last twelve months we have recognized in political life the importance of the man who is at the helm. Let it be understood in the very beginning that God today is still looking for a man. The progress of our church lies in the progress of our manhood. The fairest fruit that earth can give up to her maker is a finished man.

"A man, yes, God is searching for a man. To what purpose? To merely build churches? To add another splendid institution to our already wonderful organization? That might be well, but you know we have come to a time when we need to study ourselves a little relative to this question. We need to know today that the man is greater than the church and the end of the church is the development of the man.

The Church Represents You.

"The value of our church depends very largely on our ability to meet the demands of our community. The church is the expression of an every increasing life. It is not the expression of formulas of centuries ago. Since the Christ life is an ever growing, increasing life, so the church is on ever expanding vital force, or should be.

"Whatever the church does to the hono and glory of God is because of you and whatever the church fails to do, thereby bringing dishonor upon God, remember that this dishonors you. The value of the church therefore, depends not upon your history so much as upon your present day obidience to the will of God.

"We should seek to express the divine life through every open door and through every channel that is open to us. The doors are many. The oppor-

MURDER MILLIONAIRE WIDOW

New York Servant Confesses That He and Gang Committed Deed With Robbery Intent.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Sept. 9.—Onnie Talas, foreman at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholas, 66 years old, widow of John Nicholas, millionaire and wholesale grocer, murdered last night by robbers in the Nicholas mansion just off of Fifth Avenue, after a grilling by the police, confessed that a band of youthful gangsters had planned to rob and kill Mrs. Nicholas, who they supposed kept a half million dollar's worth of jewelry in a strong box in the home. Talas said they planned to overpower her and get the keys to the vault.

They tied a towel around the woman's neck, causing her death. The frightened boys then fled leaving Talas and a maid of the home gagged as a "blind."

Forty city detectives are hunting for an accomplice. Talas named also $10,000 worth of rings and jewelry taken from the widow. Talas first said three robbers knocked down the servants at the entrance to the home, and bound and gagged him and the maid. He said he recognized one of them as a former employee at the Nicholas home. The servants were believed to have kept an immense fortune in jewels in the house, but they really kept them in a bank vault where they were found today.

The bold murder was committed in the heart of the fashionable section of New York. It created a tremendous sensation.

tunities are far more numerous than they were years ago. To this end let me mention a few of the great gaps. There is that awful yawning abyss between our professions and our possessions. There is a mistaken notion in the world today that a man accepts no new responsibilities when he becomes a Christian.

"There are multitudes that fail because they think they can dodge the whole issue. I say to you that in becoming a Christian you simply come into the realization of your responsibilities. The measure of your responsibility is the measure of your intelligence. You merely acknowledge the responsibilities that are already resting upon you as an intelligent creature of God when you come into the church.

Be A Man, Yet A Christian.

"This great work cannot be done with pious ignorance. We need today a reverent intelligence. The measure of your responsibility is the measure of your intelligence. There is a very great break between our professions and our possessions. Most of us have professed religion for a long time and some of us have precious little of real religion—the kind of religion that is human and yet divine — the kind of religion that has in it all the essential characteristics that belong to Jesus Christ.

"We have tried to make our religion mysterious instead of bringing the truth of Christ to bear upon our lives in such a way as to make our lives natural, sweet and wholesome. We have sowehow got a holy look on our faces and we have an attitude that made us look as if we didn't know whether we were human or not.

"Oh, for a layety which have religion enough to be natural and yet clean; manly to the very core and yet Godlike, one that is a real man, with real blood and the ability to enjoy all the things of life. One that can partake in all the essential, natural things without giving them the unnatural atmosphere. We need a christianity that is naturalized to earthly spheres.

Says Some are Mental Sponges.

"There is another great, wide gap between our impressions and our expressions. One would think from the number of bench warmers that the average preacher has on Sunday mornings that they are so many sponges. They simply absorb everything like a sponge and then go out and sit in the sun and it all evaporates.

"Have you ever put your religion into actual practice? set it to work? We need trained ministers, ability to relate personal experiences. Let's bring our expressions up somewhat in keeping with our impressions. Every individual is responsible primarily to God.

"Now here is where we need to think soberly. There is a breach between our endowments and our achievements. We never give God a chance. We say, I can't do this and that. We never try. Our endowments will dwindle into nothing unless we put them to work. If we as young men, as older men and women could lay our endowments upon the altar of the Lord, he would magnify them and make them useful."

GORDON THOWS LIGHT ON SCHOOL FUND MYSTERY

A great deal has been said recently in regard to the apportionment of public school funds. There is no cause for alarm from any quarter. The school children will get every dollar that is coming to them. The mandamus suit to settle this question is absolutely necessary at this time.

For many years it has been a mooted question as to what the intention of the law was in regard to the apportionment of this money. The expert accountants appointed last winter by a legislative committee, on making its report to this office, used the following language: "In the course of our examination we checked all appropriations for the two biennial periods into the appropriation ledgers and checked the various transfers authorized by statute or ordered by the Board of Fund Commissioners. These we found to be in order. We observed, however, that the auditor has some difficulty in making the periodical transfer of one-third of ordinary revenue to state school moneys. The reason for this is that there is no definition of ordinary revenue so that he has to decide for himself and we found that he did not take the same itmes each time he made the transfer." We believe that it would be advisable to have a definition made of the term "ordinary revenue." I simply want to do what the law requires; and I wish to say to the public that I am the custodian of this money and am under heavy bond and I wish to emphatically state that not a single solitary dollar of this money will ever get away from the school children—and it never was intended that it should get away.

It does not make any difference what the Court's decision may be. If the Court decides in favor of the law as it has been formerly construed, the balance of the $500,000.00 will immediately be apportioned to the children of the state. If the Court's decision should be against former practices, I shall hold the money in a separate fund to itself, and not a single, solitary cent of it shall be used to pay any other demand or account against the state. And the Governor has agreed with me that, if necessary, he will call the legislature in exrt session to make the special appropriation for the public schools.

I wish to say in closing, that there is no cause whatever for alarm, and to repeat that not a single, solitary dollar will get away from the school children; and this is the wish and desire of every state official. But it is important that the question shall now be settled by the Court for future guidance.

JOHN P. GORDON.

Market Livestock.

The following Nodaway county stock men marketed livestock in St. Joseph yesterday, according to the Stock Yards Journal: Ed Sherlock, Wilcox; Wesley Huff, Elmo; R. L. Peters, Hopkins; G. F. Swaney, Pickering; J. B. Nunnelley, Maryville; Peters and F. Mitchell, Skidmore; Wm. Guyette, Burlington Junction.

R. M. Moss has moved to St. Joseph from 719 East Fifth.

Guilford News

Rev. O. E. Lockhart is the new pastor of the M. E. Church South at Guilford and Bethel. Rev. Lockhart comes to Guilford from the pastorate at Craig Mo. He is a man of family. He will live in the J. M. Hildebrandt tenant property which has been leased by the church as a parsonage.

The Guilford high school is already on the conditional list of approved state high schools and it remains for a state inspector to visit the school and report on the work done. A large amount of laboratory equipment, library books and furniture have been added and it is thought there will be no question of the state's approval being made permanent.

S. H. Rasco, of Barnard, came over to Guilford Tuesday to take the Great Western train for Thunder Hawk, S. D., where he will visit a daughter. Mr. Rasco is ninety-four years old. His journeys, which are frequent, are made unattended and with all the confidence shown by much younger men.

Matthew Whiteford is still confined to his home. Mr. Whiteford is almost eighty-three years of age. His has been a very active life and he has been a well known figure in northwest Missouri for many years.

Lightning wrecked a fine maple tree just at the rear of the residence of M. C. Noland, during the heavy rain Wednesday. None of the family were hurt but the Squire is of the opinion that the lightning could have done better than to tear down his clothesline tree, though not even his feelings were hurt.

The King estate land, six miles north east of Guilford, which was sold at auction sale Tuesday, to cash in the hand so that equitable division might be made among the heirs, brought a little over one hundred dollars per acre and three small timber tracts at satisfactory prices. Cary Wray did the auctioneering and W. C. Pierce the clerking.

Miss Elsie Smith, teacher of the Grammar room of our schools, is at home with Mrs. L. F. Collins. Miss Smith and in fact all the teachers seem to have a policy which will tend to good discipline, manners and study. They are to be commended and encouraged for this good work.

Rev. L. M. Kirby, who has been the pastor of the M. E. Church South here during the past year, has been sent to Julian, Nebraska, for the coming year, which work has two churches, a good big parsonage and a well established work. Rev. Kirby is very much a student and able young man. He was married but a short time ago and with his estimable wife has made many friends here.

A swarm of bees has been found on the east side of the school building in the second story. Thus we see that even the busy little bee likes to get next to a good sound education.

A REPUBLICAN MEETING.

All Agree That Outlook Is Bright Since 1908 and That Progressives Are Dying Out.

W. R. Tilson, W. F. Phares, J. S. Shinabargar and Horace F. Leet attended the meeting of the Republicans held in St. Joseph Tuesday for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming campaign. J. L. Babler, chairman of the Republican state committee, Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, and a few other Republicans were in attendance.

All of them agree that the outlook for success is the brightest since 1908 and that the Progressive party is disappearing and is being absorbed again by Republicanism.

Mr. Tilson said the Republican majority in Nodaway county last year was 300 votes, in some instances. The Republicans elected part of the ticket and the Democrats the rest. The Progressive vote of 300 in 1912 had dwindled to 225 in 1914. Tilson said that in 1916 Nodaway county should give a good Republican majority.

A DIPLOMAT FOR 45 YEARS.

Alvey A. Adee Has Been in U. S. State Department Long Time.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Alvey A. Adee, dean of American diplomatists, today completed forty-five years of continuous service in the State Department. Adee is the man who since the outbreak of the European war has passed upon every message which that struggle has inspired the State Department to send. He is the State Department's master of precedent.

It develops upon him to see that despite the voluminous correspondence which daily flows to every corner of the earth, not a word shall be said which will violate precedents already established or create a precedent which might embarass the next generation of diplomats. Adee is and for thirty years has been Second Assistant Secretary of State.

He began his career in the American foreign service, Sept. 9, 1870, when he was appointed secretary of legation at Madrid. Gen. Dan Sickles, then fresh from the fame of Gettysburg field, had just been appointed American Minister to the Spanish court.

George P. McGrew, new principal of the high school, is rooming at the home of Dr. F. M. Martin, 222 West Thompson.

S. K. Lewis is a new arrival in the city. Mr. Lewis has come to Maryville from near Parnell and has rented the Jones property at 622 North Market.

D. E. (Doc) Thompson until recently employed at the Knox garage, is now working as fireman for the Wabash railroad in the grading work now being done near the local station. Mr. Thompson recently moved from 421 South Vine to near Eighth and Mulberry.

Folks Who Don't Think.

Abe Martin has said many most excellent things but he never excelled his "Folks that blurt out just what they think wouldn't be so bad if they thought." People who say disagreeable things pride themselves on their frankness, but they seldom stop to consider what the effect upon them would be if their friends tried the same method on them. Did you ever notice that the most frank people, those most prone to criticize, can take the fewest suggestions from other people?

There is no greater contributor to the "gentle art of making enemies" than a brusque habit of speech. A barbed retort will lose in a moment a friend. Making enemies is done much more quickly than making friends. The truly tactful person stops a minute before her most chance remarks, for she knows how easy it is thoughtlessly to strike in the sensitive places.

Society Meeting Deferred.

The Penelope members are feeling quite elated over the premiums given their club display at the county fair. The amount in money received was $9.00 given only as a club entry. The work shown attracted the admiration of every visitor at the fair. In addition to the club prizes many of the members took individual premiums on their work.

Advertising In Slow Times Means Future Buying From You

Consistent regular advertising is the biggest paying investment that an up-to-date concern can use. Because the regularity with which you tell your customers and future customers about your merchandise will be in the same proportion by which they will remember you.

Drop out of the public eye for a time and for that time you have lost efficiency. The good will of the buyer must be held day after day without lapse, for although slow times may for a while postpone buying, the consumer must be made to bear your concern in mind during this lapse. Otherwise the memory of the buyer reverts only to the regular advertiser, after business takes on new life, and the regular advertiser obtains the fruit of the purchasing.

Advertising inslow times holds the attention of old and new customers, and gives you a big paying insurance for future trade, which will many times pay you for the investment in advertising. Slow time advertising places a new confidence in your concern and keeps your goods continuously in the minds of the shopper. And this is certainly a necessary insurance for future buying.

THE DEMOCRAT-FORUM Advertising Offers You the Same Opportunity of Controlling Future Buying as Others Are Taking Advantage of Day After Day.

FARM ANIMALS

SPREAD HOG CHOLERA GERMS

Disease Communicated to Healthy Animals Only by Permitting Germs to Be Carried to Them.

(By DR. B. T. SIMMS, Oregon Experiment Station.)

Hog raisers need to be on the alert to prevent the introduction and spread of the dread disease into their parts of the state. Since the disease is due to a germ of microscopic size it naturally follows that it can be communicated to well hogs only by permitting the germs to be carried to them. A knowledge of the different methods of carrying the germ from infected hogs to well hogs is essential to prevention. Some of these methods of spread are as follows:

1. By direct contact with hogs suffering from cholera.

2. By carriers, that is, hogs that have recovered from cholera, but still pass germs with their droppings.

3. By humans that have come into contact with infected hogs or premises.

4. By dogs, coyotes, buzzards and other carrion-eating animals that have fed on the carcasses of infected hogs.

5. By stock cars, stock yards, etc., in which have been placed infected hogs.

6. By infected water.

7. By slops, swill and garbage that have been infected with bacon rinds or ham bones from hogs that had been afflicted with cholera at slaughter.

Germs will ordinarily die out in four months in lot conditions, but are so resistant that they survive the usual curing and packing process as carried on in the big packing houses. After they have once found lodgment in the hog there is no remedy known but hog cholera serum. Growers should therefore take every precaution to see that germs do not enter their herds by any of the foregoing means.

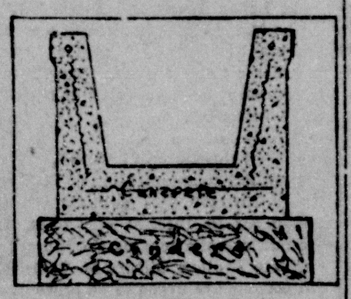
MAKE CONCRETE STOCK TANK

Directions for Making and Illustration of Receptacle for Water—Necessity on Any Farm.

Here is a little cross-section sketch of a concrete stock tank I completed just recently. I made the forms, inside and out, of 1 by 6 inch matched yellow pine boards, with two-inch cleats about two feet apart, greasing the forms with machine oil, writes Ernest Heuer in Farmers' Review.

Where we wanted the tank to stand we filled in the ground with an eight-inch base of cinders. On this we put up the outside form. Then we were ready for the concrete.

The bottom is eight inches thick of 1-2-4 concrete. For tanks and walls I like to have the concrete rather wet.



Concrete Water Tank.

After the bottom had become somewhat stiff we put in the inside form and began filling the sides. For these we used a richer concrete, 1-1½-3.

The whole tank is re-enforced, as shown in the sketch, with a good hog wire, No. 9, with stays six inches apart. Around in the top I put square twisted half-inch steel rods.

After two days I took off the form. Then I mixed cement and water to the thickness of cream and with a whitewash brush I painted the whole tank two or three times over till all holes and uneven spots were filled up.

SWINE ON ALFALFA PASTURE

Desirable to Have Fields Fenced Off into Suitable Areas to Shift Hogs From One to Another.

(By G. W. BARNES, Arizona Experiment Station.)

While a few hogs can be raised confined in limited quarters, provided such quarters are kept clean, they will do better, remain healthier and produce pork more economically if they have plenty of alfalfa range.

It is desirable to have the alfalfa pasture fenced off into suitable areas, so that the hogs can be shifted from one pasture to another. This will not only provide fresh pasture, but will give an opportunity to cultivate, and if need be to disinfect.

Practically all cases of intestinal worms, which are common in swine, are contracted from infested grounds; therefore, by pasture rotation you can help keep your hogs free from these parasites.

Lambs Sometimes Starve.

Many a lamb starves to death with a good milking mother, just because the wool—sometimes badly matted—hides the teats. A moment's investigation with a pair of shears would prevent any trouble at all.

POULTRY FACTS

WHITE WYANDOTTES IN FAVOR

One of the Most Important Things for Beginner Is Selection of Breed—Seven Good Characteristics.

(By JOHN C. LYSTER.)

When a beginner starts a poultry plant, large or small, one of the most important things for him to consider is the breed he wants.

If after eggs only it would be policy for him to select one of the Mediterranean breeds, such as the Leghorn. If he desires to market mature birds he should keep a meat breed like the Cornish or the Brahma. If a general purpose fowl is his aim he must select the White Wyandotte for the following reasons:

First. As layers this breed has proved its superiority to all others, as shown in three recent laying competitions, when the grand average for White Wyandottes was 190 eggs in one year—a far better record than that of the Leghorns or the Reds.

Second. White Wyandotte eggs are large and brown, an advantage that is of great importance in the markets of my vicinity.

Third. The chicks are hardy and grow to broiler size quicker than any other breed, and the fine feathers, being white, do not spoil their appearance when dressed for market, as in the case of Breed Rocks.

Fourth. The White Wyandotte makes a good roaster and a profitable capon. The males will average about eight pounds and the females around five or six pounds.

Fifth. Pullets hatched in April, with proper housing, feeding and attention, will lay late in October, when the egg market is advancing its prices.

Sixth. The small, rose combs of the White Wyandotte are never frosted, thus eliminating a trouble that affects large-combed breeds in cold weather. It is generally recognized that the White Wyandotte continues laying in the coldest months.

Seventh. As mothers the White Wyandottes have no betters. They are not continuously broody, but are faithful, careful and attentive when setting or mothering chicks. I have analyzed the White Wyandotte very carefully, and have failed to find any breed that combines these seven characteristic features that make the White Wyandotte a sure money-maker if given proper attention.

MAY WIDEN NODAWAY ROAD

Delegation Asks County Court to Condemn Land for Half-mile Near Burlington Junction.

A delegation of residents of Nodaway township appeared before the county court this afternoon for the purpose of having the court condemn a few feet of land for a half-mile along the state public road two miles southeast of Burlington Junction, with a view to widening the highway. They declare that the present narrow width of this stretch, ranging from 28 to 36 feet, admits of little grading and leaves mud holes.

The road runs along the farms of Ernest Boyer and John Graves. U. S. Reavis said Boyer was opposed to the widening but that Graves was willing to give up a stretch along his place, for such a purpose. The proposed highway has already been surveyed.

Those comprising the delegation were: M. C. Gray, U. S. Reavis, G. A. Surface, R. P. Ferguson, Richard Tobin William Cummings and Ernest Cummings.

The court will probably act on the matter before adjourning this week.

Buy Land Now!

You can make no better investment right now than to buy Western farm land—and do it before the high prices of products and the present cycle of productive years in Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming, force a big advance in values.

In the Big Horn Basin and in the North Platte Valley, irrigated farms are being cut in two and offered for sale on favorable terms All crops there are the heaviest on record. You can secure a Government irrigated farm near Powell, Wyo., almost as a gift. The value of this year's crop, on thousands of acres in Nebraska and Colorado, is equal to the original cost of the land.

If you are not fixed to buy, even on easy terms, take a 320-acre Mondell homestead in Wyoming, for mixed dairy farming. Look the West over now. You can ride all day through fields of bumper crops and make your own deduction as to what this condition means to the man who will buy land in these localities now. Write me. I can help you. My services are free.

BAPTISTS CLOSE CONVENTION TODAY

WILL HOLD NEXT ANNUAL MEET OF ASSOCIATION AT TARKIO.

KANSAS CITY PASTOR SPOKE LAST NIGHT

Gives Address on Laymen's Movement. Thirty-five Churches Rrepresented at Maryville Gathering.

The closing session of the Northwest Missouri Baptist association which has been in convention at the First Baptist church since Tuesday morning, was held this afternoon, Dr. C. B. Miller pastor of the Central Baptist church of Kansas City, giving the closing address.

The 1916 meeting of the association will be held at Tarkio during the first part of September.

The morning session today was devoted to William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., and its part in the denominational work of the church. Dr. E. C. Griffith of the faculty of William Jewell was in charge of this hour and gave a splendid address upon the value of Christian education.

Dr. Miller gave one of the finest addresses of the convention last night, taking for his subject, "The Layman, His Place in the Kingdom of God."

Dr. Miller said in part:

Church Needs Real Men.

"The church now faces such an issue as it has never faced before. The task is stupendous. Whether ignorant or learned, rich or poor, God finds a place for every man and every man ought to find himself in his place. Let us think of the magnificent industries we are so familiar with today.

"Back of all these splendid commercial organizations is the genius of a clear brained man. We can't get along without it. We need it. How in these last twelve months we have recognized in political life the importance of the man who is at the helm. Let it be understood in the very beginning that God today is still looking for a man. The progress of our church lies in the progress of our manhood. The fairest fruit that earth can give up to her maker is a finished man.

"A man, yes, God is searching for a man. To what purpose? To merely build churches? To add another splendid institution to our already wonderful organization? That might be well, but you know we have come to a time when we need to study ourselves a little relative to this question. We need to know today that the man is greater than the church and the end of the church is the development of the man.

The Church Represents You.

"The value of our church depends very largely on our ability to meet the demands of our community. The church is the expression of an every increasing life. It is not the expression of formulas of centuries ago. Since the Christ life is an ever growing, increasing life, so the church is on ever expanding vital force, or should be.

"Whatever the church does to the hono and glory of God is because of you and whatever the church fails to do, thereby bringing dishonor upon God, remember that this dishonors you. The value of the church therefore, depends not upon your history so much as upon your present day obidience to the will of God.

"We should seek to express the divine life through every open door and through every channel that is open to us. The doors are many. The oppor-

MURDER MILLIONAIRE WIDOW

New York Servant Confesses That He and Gang Committed Deed With Robbery Intent.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

New York, Sept. 9.—Onnie Talas, foreman at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Nicholas, 66 years old, widow of John Nicholas, millionaire and wholesale grocer, murdered last night by robbers in the Nicholas mansion just off of Fifth Avenue, after a grilling by the police, confessed that a band of youthful gangsters had planned to rob and kill Mrs. Nicholas, who they supposed kept a half million dollar's worth of jewelry in a strong box in the home. Talas said they planned to overpower her and get the keys to the vault.

They tied a towel around the woman's neck, causing her death. The frightened boys then fled leaving Talas and a maid of the home gagged as a "blind."

Forty city detectives are hunting for an accomplice. Talas named also $10,000 worth of rings and jewelry taken from the widow. Talas first said three robbers knocked down the servants at the entrance to the home, and bound and gagged him and the maid. He said he recognized one of them as a former employee at the Nicholas home. The servants were believed to have kept an immense fortune in jewels in the house, but they really kept them in a bank vault where they were found today.

The bold murder was committed in the heart of the fashionable section of New York. It created a tremendous sensation.

tunities are far more numerous than they were years ago. To this end let me mention a few of the great gaps. There is that awful yawning abyss between our professions and our possessions. There is a mistaken notion in the world today that a man accepts no new responsibilities when he becomes a Christian.

"There are multitudes that fail because they think they can dodge the whole issue. I say to you that in becoming a Christian you simply come into the realization of your responsibilities. The measure of your responsibility is the measure of your intelligence. You merely acknowledge the responsibilities that are already resting upon you as an intelligent creature of God when you come into the church.

Be A Man, Yet A Christian.

"This great work cannot be done with pious ignorance. We need today a reverent intelligence. The measure of your responsibility is the measure of your intelligence. There is a very great break between our professions and our possessions. Most of us have professed religion for a long time and some of us have precious little of real religion—the kind of religion that is human and yet divine — the kind of religion that has in it all the essential characteristics that belong to Jesus Christ.

"We have tried to make our religion mysterious instead of bringing the truth of Christ to bear upon our lives in such a way as to make our lives natural, sweet and wholesome. We have sowehow got a holy look on our faces and we have an attitude that made us look as if we didn't know whether we were human or not.

"Oh, for a layety which have religion enough to be natural and yet clean; manly to the very core and yet Godlike, one that is a real man, with real blood and the ability to enjoy all the things of life. One that can partake in all the essential, natural things without giving them the unnatural atmosphere. We need a christianity that is naturalized to earthly spheres.

Says Some are Mental Sponges.

"There is another great, wide gap between our impressions and our expressions. One would think from the number of bench warmers that the average preacher has on Sunday mornings that they are so many sponges. They simply absorb everything like a sponge and then go out and sit in the sun and it all evaporates.

"Have you ever put your religion into actual practice? set it to work? We need trained ministers, ability to relate personal experiences. Let's bring our expressions up somewhat in keeping with our impressions. Every individual is responsible primarily to God.

"Now here is where we need to think soberly. There is a breach between our endowments and our achievements. We never give God a chance. We say, I can't do this and that. We never try. Our endowments will dwindle into nothing unless we put them to work. If we as young men, as older men and women could lay our endowments upon the altar of the Lord, he would magnify them and make them useful."

GORDON THOWS LIGHT ON SCHOOL FUND MYSTERY

A great deal has been said recently in regard to the apportionment of public school funds. There is no cause for alarm from any quarter. The school children will get every dollar that is coming to them. The mandamus suit to settle this question is absolutely necessary at this time.

For many years it has been a mooted question as to what the intention of the law was in regard to the apportionment of this money. The expert accountants appointed last winter by a legislative committee, on making its report to this office, used the following language: "In the course of our examination we checked all appropriations for the two biennial periods into the appropriation ledgers and checked the various transfers authorized by statute or ordered by the Board of Fund Commissioners. These we found to be in order. We observed, however, that the auditor has some difficulty in making the periodical transfer of one-third of ordinary revenue to state school moneys. The reason for this is that there is no definition of ordinary revenue so that he has to decide for himself and we found that he did not take the same itmes each time he made the transfer." We believe that it would be advisable to have a definition made of the term "ordinary revenue." I simply want to do what the law requires; and I wish to say to the public that I am the custodian of this money and am under heavy bond and I wish to emphatically state that not a single solitary dollar of this money will ever get away from the school children—and it never was intended that it should get away.

It does not make any difference what the Court's decision may be. If the Court decides in favor of the law as it has been formerly construed, the balance of the $500,000.00 will immediately be apportioned to the children of the state. If the Court's decision should be against former practices, I shall hold the money in a separate fund to itself, and not a single, solitary cent of it shall be used to pay any other demand or account against the state. And the Governor has agreed with me that, if necessary, he will call the legislature in exrt session to make the special appropriation for the public schools.

I wish to say in closing, that there is no cause whatever for alarm, and to repeat that not a single, solitary dollar will get away from the school children; and this is the wish and desire of every state official. But it is important that the question shall now be settled by the Court for future guidance.

JOHN P. GORDON.

The following Nodaway county stock men marketed livestock in St. Joseph yesterday, according to the Stock Yards Journal: Ed Sherlock, Wilcox; Wesley Huff, Elmo; R. L. Peters, Hopkins; G. F. R. M. Moss has moved to St. Joseph from 719 East Fifth.

Guilford News

Rev. O. E. Lockhart is the new pastor of the M. E. Church South at Guilford and Bethel. Rev. Lockhart comes to Guilford from the pastorate at Craig Mo. He is a man of family. He will live in the J. M. Hildebrandt tenant property which has been leased by the church as a parsonage.

The Guilford high school is already on the conditional list of approved state high schools and it remains for a state inspector to visit the school and report on the work done. A large amount of laboratory equipment, library books and furniture have been added and it is thought there will be no question of the state's approval being made permanent.

S. H. Rasco, of Barnard, came over to Guilford Tuesday to take the Great Western train for Thunder Hawk, S. D., where he will visit a daughter. Mr. Rasco is ninety-four years old. His journeys, which are frequent, are made unattended and with all the confidence shown by much younger men.

Matthew Whiteford is still confined to his home. Mr. Whiteford is almost eighty-three years of age. His has been a very active life and he has been a well known figure in northwest Missouri for many years.

Lightning wrecked a fine maple tree just at the rear of the residence of M. C. Noland, during the heavy rain Wednesday. None of the family were hurt but the Squire is of the opinion that the lightning could have done better than to tear down his clothesline tree, though not even his feelings were hurt.

The King estate land, six miles north east of Guilford, which was sold at auction sale Tuesday, to cash in the hand so that equitable division might be made among the heirs, brought a little over one hundred dollars per acre and three small timber tracts at satisfactory prices. Cary Wray did the auctioneering and W. C. Pierce the clerking.

Miss Elsie Smith, teacher of the Grammar room of our schools, is at home with Mrs. L. F. Collins. Miss Smith and in fact all the teachers seem to have a policy which will tend to good discipline, manners and study. They are to be commended and encouraged for this good work.

Rev. L. M. Kirby, who has been the pastor of the M. E. Church South here during the past year, has been sent to Julian, Nebraska, for the coming year, which work has two churches, a good big parsonage and a well established work. Rev. Kirby is very much a student and able young man. He was married but a short time ago and with his estimable wife has made many friends here.

A swarm of bees has been found on the east side of the school building in the second story. Thus we see that even the busy little bee likes to get next to a good sound education.

A REPUBLICAN MEETING.

All Agree That Outlook Is Bright Since 1908 and That Progressives Are Dying Out.

W. R. Tilson, W. F. Phares, J. S. Shinabargar and Horace F. Leet attended the meeting of the Republicans held in St. Joseph Tuesday for the purpose of discussing plans for the coming campaign. J. L. Babler, chairman of the Republican state committee, Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, and a few other Republicans were in attendance.

All of them agree that the outlook for success is the brightest since 1908 and that the Progressive party is disappearing and is being absorbed again by Republicanism.

Mr. Tilson said the Republican majority in Nodaway county last year was 300 votes, in some instances. The Republicans elected part of the ticket and the Democrats the rest. The Progressive vote of 300 in 1912 had dwindled to 225 in 1914. Tilson said that in 1916 Nodaway county should give a good Republican majority.

A DIPLOMAT FOR 45 YEARS.

Alvey A. Adee Has Been in U. S. State Department Long Time.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Alvey A. Adee, dean of American diplomatists, today completed forty-five years of continuous service in the State Department. Adee is the man who since the outbreak of the European war has passed upon every message which that struggle has inspired the State Department to send. He is the State Department's master of precedent.

It develops upon him to see that despite the voluminous correspondence which daily flows to every corner of the earth, not a word shall be said which will violate precedents already established or create a precedent which might embarass the next generation of diplomats. Adee is and for thirty years has been Second Assistant Secretary of State.

He began his career in the American foreign service, Sept. 9, 1870, when he was appointed secretary of legation at Madrid. Gen. Dan Sickles, then fresh from the fame of Gettysburg field, had just been appointed American Minister to the Spanish court.

George P. McGrew, new principal of the high school, is rooming at the home of Dr. F. M. Martin, 222 West Thompson.

S. K. Lewis is a new arrival in the city. Mr. Lewis has come to Maryville from near Parnell and has rented the Jones property at 622 North Market.

D. E. (Doc) Thompson until recently employed at the Knox garage, is now working as fireman for the Wabash railroad in the grading work now being done near the local station. Mr. Thompson recently moved from 421 South Vine to near Eighth and Mulberry.

Folks Who Don't Think.

Abe Martin has said many most excellent things but he never excelled his "Folks that blurt out just what they think wouldn't be so bad if they thought." People who say disagreeable things pride themselves on their frankness, but they seldom stop to consider what the effect upon them would be if their friends tried the same method on them. Did you ever notice that the most frank people, those most prone to criticize, can take the fewest suggestions from other people?

There is no greater contributor to the "gentle art of making enemies" than a brusque habit of speech. A barbed retort will lose in a moment a friend. Making enemies is done much more quickly than making friends. The truly tactful person stops a minute before her most chance remarks, for she knows how easy it is thoughtlessly to strike in the sensitive places.

Society Meeting Deferred.

The meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Buchanan Street Methodist church, which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, was postponed until Wednesday afternoon of next week, when it will meet at the same time and place.

The Penelope members are feeling quite elated over the premiums given their club display at the county fair. The amount in money received was $9.00 given only as a club entry. The work shown attracted the admiration of every visitor at the fair. In addition to the club prizes many of the members took individual premiums on their work.

Advertising In Slow Times Means Future Buying From You

Consistent regular advertising is the biggest paying investment that an up-to-date concern can use. Because the regularity with which you tell your customers and future customers about your merchandise. will be in the same proportion by which they will remember you.

Drop out of the public eye for a time and for that time you have lost efficiency. The good will of the buyer must be held day after day without lapse, for although slow times may for a while postpone buying, the consumer must be made to bear your concern in mind during this lapse. Otherwise the memory of the buyer reve ts only to the regular advertiser, after business takes on new life, and the regular advertiser obtains the fruit of the purchasing.

Advertising inslow times holds the attention of old and new customers, and gives you a big paying insurance for future trade, which will many times pay you for the investment in advertising. Slow time advertising places a new confidence in your concern and keeps your goods continuously in the minds of the shopper. And this is certainly a necessary insurance for future buying.

MAY WIDEN NODAWAY ROAD

Delegation Asks County Court to Condemn Land for Half-mile Near Burlington Junction.

A delegation of residents of Nodaway township appeared before the county court this afternoon for the purpose of having the court condemn a few feet of land for a half-mile along the state public road two miles southeast of Burlington Junction, with a view to widening the highway. They declare that the present narrow width of this stretch, ranging from 28 to 36 feet, admits of little grading and leaves mud holes.

The road runs along the farms of Ernest Boyer and John Graves. U. S. Reavis said Boyer was opposed to the widening but that Graves was willing to give up a stretch along his place, for such a purpose. The proposed highway has already been surveyed.

Those comprising the delegation were: M. C. Gray, U. S. Reavis, G. A. Surface, R. P. Ferguson, Richard Tobin William Cummings and Ernest Cummings.

The court will probably act on the matter before adjourning this week.

Buy Land Now!

You can make no better investment right now than to buy Western farm land—and do it before the high prices of products and the present cycle of productive years in Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming, force a big advance in values.

In the Big Horn Basin and in the North Platte Valley, irrigated farms are being cut in two and offered for sale on favorable terms All crops there are the heaviest on record. You can secure a Government irrigated farm near Powell, Wyo., almost as a gift. The value of this year's crop, on thousands of acres in Nebraska and Colorado, is equal to the original cost of the land.

If you are not fixed to buy, even on easy terms, take a 320-acre Mondell homestead in Wyoming, for mixed dairy farming. Look the West over now. You can ride all day through fields of bumper crops and make your own deduction as to what this condition means to the man who will buy land in these localities now. Write me. I can help you. My services are free.

POULTRY FACTS

WHITE WYANDOTTES IN FAVOR

One of the Most Important Things for Beginner Is Selection of Breed—Seven Good Characteristics.

When a beginner starts a poultry plant, large or small, one of the most important things for him to consider is the breed he wants.

If after eggs only it would be policy for him to select one of the Mediterranean breeds, such as the Leghorn. If he desires to market mature birds he should keep a meat breed like the Cornish or the Brahma. If a general purpose fowl is his aim he must select the White Wyandotte for the following reasons:

First. As layers this breed has proved its superiority to all others, as shown in three recent laying competitions, when the grand average for White Wyandottes was 190 eggs in one year—a far better record than that of the Leghorns or the Reds.

Second. White Wyandotte eggs are large and brown, an advantage that is of great importance in the markets of my vicinity.

Third. The chicks are hardy and grow to broiler size quicker than any other breed, and the fine feathers, being white, do not spoil their appearance when dressed for market, as in the case of Breed Rocks.

Fourth. The White Wyandotte makes a good roaster and a profitable capon. The males will average about eight pounds and the females around five or six pounds.

Fifth. Pullets hatched in April, with proper housing, feeding and attention, will lay late in October, when the egg market is advancing its prices.

Sixth. The small, rose combs of the White Wyandotte are never frosted, thus eliminating a trouble that affects large-combed breeds in cold weather. It is generally recognized that the White Wyandotte continues laying in the coldest months.

Seventh. As mothers the White Wyandottes have no betters. They are not continuously broody, but are faithful, careful and attentive when setting or mothering chicks. I have analyzed the White Wyandotte very carefully, and have failed to find any breed that combines these seven characteristic features that make the White Wyandotte a sure money-maker if given proper attention.

FARM ANIMALS

SPREAD HOG CHOLERA GERMS

Disease Communicated to Healthy Animals Only by Permitting Germs to Be Carried to Them.

(By DR. B. T. SIMMS, Oregon Experiment Station.)

Hog raisers need to be on the alert to prevent the introduction and spread of the dread disease into their parts of the state. Since the disease is due to a germ of microscopic size it naturally follows that it can be communicated to well hogs only by permitting the germs to be carried to them. A knowledge of the different methods of carrying the germ from infected hogs to well hogs is essential to prevention. Some of these methods of spread are as follows:

1. By direct contact with hogs suffering from cholera.

2. By carriers, that is, hogs that have recovered from cholera, but still pass germs with their droppings.

3. By humans that have come into contact with infected hogs or premises.

4. By dogs, coyotes, buzzards and other carrion-eating animals that have fed on the carcasses of infected hogs.

5. By stock cars, stock yards, etc., in which have been placed infected hogs.

6. By infected water.

7. By slops, swill and garbage that have been infected with bacon rinds or ham bones from hogs that had been afflicted with cholera at slaughter.

Germs will ordinarily die out in four months in lot conditions, but are so resistant that they survive the usual curing and packing process as carried on in the big packing houses. After they have once found lodgment in the hog there is no remedy known but hog cholera serum. Growers should therefore take every precaution to see that germs do not enter their herds by any of the foregoing means.

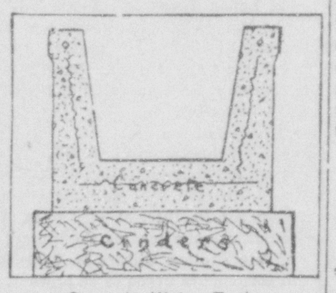
MAKE CONCRETE STOCK TANK

Directions for Making and Illustration of Receptacle for Water—Necessity on Any Farm.

Here is a little cross-section sketch of a concrete stock tank I completed just recently. I made the forms, inside and out, of 1 by 6 inch matched yellow pine boards, with two-inch cleats about two feet apart, greasing the forms with machine oil, writes Ernest Heuer in Farmers' Review.

Where we wanted the tank to stand we filled in the ground with an eight inch base of cinders. On this we put up the outside form. Then we were ready for the concrete.

The bottom is eight inches thick of 1-2-4 concrete. For tanks and walls I like to have the concrete rather wet.



Concrete Water Tank.

After the bottom had become somewhat stiff we put in the inside form and began filling the sides. For these we used a richer concrete, 1-1½-3.

The whole tank is re-enforced, as shown in the sketch, with a good hog wire, No. 9, with stays six inches apart. Around in the top I put square twisted half-inch steel rods.

After two days I took off the form. Then I mixed cement and water to the thickness of cream and with a whitewash brush I painted the whole tank two or three times over till all holes and uneven spots were filled up.

SWINE ON ALFALFA PASTURE

Desirable to Have Fields Fenced Off Into Suitable Areas to Shift Hogs From One to Another.

(By G. W. BARNES, Arizona Experiment Station.)

While a few hogs can be raised confined in limited quarters, provided such quarters are kept clean, they will do better, remain healthier and produce pork more economically if they have plenty of alfalfa range.

It is desirable to have the alfalfa pasture fenced off into suitable areas, so that the hogs can be shifted from one pasture to another. This will not only provide fresh pasture, but will give an opportunity to cultivate, and if need be to disinfect.

Practically all cases of intestinal worms, which are common in swine, are contracted from infected grounds; therefore, by pasture rotation you can help keep your hogs free from these parasites.

Lambs Sometimes Starve.

Many a lamb starves to death with a good milking mother, just because the wool—sometimes badly soiled—hides the teats. A moment's investigation with a pair of shears would prevent any trouble at all.
